FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

MindGene, LLC Showcases d20Pro, a Virtual Table Top Origins Game Fair 2009 – Columbus, Ohio

d20Pro v1.14 provides virtual Dungeons & Dragons gaming

Columbus, OH (June 23rd, 2009) – Miami-based gaming software developers MindGene (www.mindgene.com) will showcase the company's revolutionary product, d20Pro (www.d20Pro.com). During Origins Game Fair in Columbus Ohio from June 24th – 28th 2009, MindGene will be providing an array of tables, including a Gary Gygax Original, Return to the Barrier Peaks. The MindGene team will also present an expanded gaming experience, with a new fast format contest, d20Pro Deathmatch.

Deathmatch is a double elimination, timed tournament for eight competitors. Winners from each tournament receive a free d20Pro license and an invitation to the finals. MindGene and Joe Richardson will offer an Original Adventure, Kobolds' Revenge Trilogy. Finally, Daniel Rivera will run 8 games and put d20Pro to the '4E' Test.

All d20Pro games are scheduled for play with The Gathering. There is dedicated space providing 10 laptops, 4 projectors and additional LCD displays to enhance the overall gaming experience. Origins participants are invited to drop by to observe any of the 32 scheduled d20Pro games throughout the convention. Gamers can expect to continue the Kobold's Revenge saga offered last year, some Gary Gygax flair, several 4E games, prizes, and more.

"As gamers first and foremost, we are excited to return to Origins. d20Pro v1.14 represents yet another level-up in computer aided role-playing and returning gamers will notice substantial improvements since our well attended events last year. We continue to press on into the future, redefining what is possible in a VTT" says Mat Morton, MindGene President and Lead Developer. Nicholas Bevilacqua, MindGene VP and Marketing Man, adds "If you enjoy what d20Pro can offer now, wait until you experience what we have store in the near future. Our goal is to make d20Pro... epic! Contact me to arrange a sneak peek of several game-changing features that will headline the upcoming release."

The d20Pro software is a d20 3.5 Open Gaming License compliant gaming engine allowing gamers to easily run virtual tabletop games online or in person using one or more networked computers around a table. By providing players with instant access to attacks, skills, and spells, d20Pro makes the key mechanics of virtual tabletop gaming more efficient, allowing fast play and more play.

On-site tutorials and interviews can be arranged through Nicholas Bevilacqua (nick@mindgene.com / 786.586.6148). Convention attendees may register to play d20Pro at The Gathering's HQ. Free trial downloads are available at www.d20Pro.com.
